Peer Review of Ryan Johanson's Article Proposal

Strengths - Ryan's pitch is very focused on what it's aiming to write about. He's laid out a clear, concise plan of action, in which he's broken down each and every step of what will become his process. There's no vagueness, or question about what Ryan will be attempting to report on.

Suggestions for Improvements - My main suggestion would be to conceptualize a photo plan for his article. I think that laying out the specific type of image that he wants attached to the article will make it a lot easier to get that picture taken when the time comes.

Final thoughts - I think that Ryan has a solid foundation to build off of from his outline. It seems like he's passionate about the article, which is reflected in the level of detail in his proposal. If he follows through with everything that he's put forth in his outline, I think that he'll end up drafting a very interesting article.
